A British View of the American Tariff.

Sheffield Daily Telegraph.

"The promoters of the McKinley tariff meant it to push forward the policy of American for the Americans. One method of realizing it was to keep all work within their own dominions. The country was to be made self-supplying: what could be produced at home was not to be bought Kinley scheme, and it is working out the idea of its designers with the precision and effectiveness of a machine."

REPUBLICAN victory in the coming election would retard for a long time the progress of the sound commercial doc-trines that underlie the commercial greatness of Great Britain and alone maintain British ascendancy.—London Evening News.

IN 1890 it was a couffict of predictions now our adversaries must face trade statlatics and prices current. - President Harrison

Campaign Year Business

It is a matter of general remark that in no presidential year within the present generation, if ever, has the business of the country been so prosperous. Many branches of trade report the best year they have had, manufacturers are busy, jobbers are selling shead for next season, retailers are busy, laborers are employed at remunerative wages, and the whole country seems to be going ahead without any regard to the fact that in less than a month the people are to declare at the polls whether they will change the national administration and the national

This prosperous condition of the country means the confidence of business men in the faithfulness and common sense of the American people They know that the opportunity for a change is about to present itself and they do not believe that the people will now declare for the change.

And so we have the most prosperous year in American history succeeded by the presidential year which thus far has outstripped in business any similar year that has gone before.

If this is not a handsome and an elo quent tribute to the sound business policy of the Republican party, it would be hard to find one.

Mr. CLEVELAND was opposed to taking the duty off of sugar. The champions of his party gave notice that they in-

British policy, that is, to place the duties where they will yield the best revenue. The man who is willing to pay more for his sugar than he does now should vote the Democratic ticket.

Two Pictures Our Democratic friends in West Virginia are illustrating by two very striking pictures their mortal dread lest six thousand colored voters may dominate the one hundred and sixty thousand white voters in this state. Picture No. 1, is on the front end of a howling "foace" bill campaign document intended for circulation in certain parts of the state. Here we have an elegant white gentleman standing at the poles in front of the ballot box and of two other equally elegant and equally alarmed white gentlemen. The white voter has his ballot in his hand about to deposit it. On one side of him is a burly "nigger" tough, one hand resting on the voter's shoulder and in the other a revolver. On the other side of the white voter is an equally black and equally burly "nigger" tough with a shot gun in his hand. This, it must be confessed, is a very striking picture, but another part still still remains to be told. The white voter has not only a ballot in his right hand ready to deposit, but he has three other ballots in his left hand. It may be that the "nigger" toughs are objecting to this white gentleman depositing four ballots at one time after the fashion of long haired gentlemen in the far south. This not explained.

We are told that the picture represents "What the force bill means." Now we submit in all candor to the Democratic managers that any honest man, white or black, would object to any other man depositing four ballots where the law allows him to poll but one.

The esteemed Register supplies us with another picture of equally blood curdling type. West Virginia is represented as a nort of Goddess of Liberty and a "nigger" ruffian is about to vio late her. The white gentleman, with the label "Democracy" on his trousers' leg, comes to the rescue, and we are told that this shows "How Stephen B. Elkins must run West Virginia into the Republican column in payment for a seat in the cabinet."

It is a fair inference that these works of art are intended to illustrate the very eloquent oration of Mr. MacCorkle, slugger and Democratic nominee for governor.

We beg to suggest that there is room for another cartoon. Ruflian "nigger" children might be represented with clubs in their hands mixing with delicate white children in the public schools; and the constitution of West Virginia, which prohibits mixed schools in this state, might be represented as in the back ground cracking its sides with laughter over the monumental ignorance of a man who aspires to be governor of his state and has never taken sufficient interest in its institutions to read the constitution of that state, to know what it provides; what it permits, and what it prohibits.

There is time enough to produce this picture and to make sure of holding West Virginia in the Democratic column: No time should be lost in getting it out into the back counties. It will prove a regular cyclone, just as the others have. "No Force Bill, No Nigger Domination."

THE trouble with Colonel Hart was that his Democratic questioner was, as we have stated, entirely too much for him.—Register.

Now that you have found your man who should lose no time in attaching him with hooks of steel to the Register staff.

Friends, Fellow-Citizens, Countrymer There is a notable feature in this campaign which distinguishes it from any that have preceded it. When a political procession is passing, of whichever party it may be, we rarely hear the noots and jeers which have one side or the other in former campaigns, and which have been heard less and less each campaign year.

In illustration of this spirit of good fellowship and neighborly feeling, not long since a Republican marching column and a Democratic marching column passed on Market street and each saluted the other, to the very great gratification of bystanders. Neither party yielded anything of its principles and each did itself honor by its courtiest treatment of the other.

This is the way to get along in this world. We are all Americans, all fellow citizens, all neighbors. We do not all agree on the main questions, which is all the worse for our Democratic friends.

HEAR McKinley this afternoon if you never hear another public address.

Wheeling's Big Week.

This is to be a great week in Wheeling. First comes McKinley day, which is already with us. Then we have Columbian day, which really spreads over the whole week. Wheeling ought to be decorated from one end to the other throughout the whole week, and this is a good day to begin the patriotic work. Let every house blaze with the national colors.

Under protection, bunting is almost as cheap as common muslin. Common muslin printed in red, white and blue is so cheap as to be within everybody's reach. Beautiful red, white and blue paper devices are cheap and effective, and for a dollar you can get red fire enough to burn all night. There was not anything like this here when Columbus discovered us. Cleveland and Tin Plate.

An importer of Welsh tin plate writes to a Wheeling dealer quoting prices and suggesting that this an exceptionally good time to buy, for if Cleveland be elected the price of tin plate will advance, while if Harrison the tin plate industry in this country, American competition instead of becoming more and more a factor would practically drop out and leave the market, as it was before, in the hands of the Welsh manufacturers.

Importers are not always so logical, rarely so truthful as this; and the sound logic and truthfulness of this particular importer are to be attributed to his desire to unload as soon as he can.

Some misguided men are going to vote the Democratic ticket because they don't believe the Democratic party be lieves protection unconstitutional, although it says it believes that very thing. This is decidedly funny and not much of a compliment to the Democratic party, for that matter it doesn't look very well for the men who are going to take the chance.

He Told the Truth.

Some one singing himself "A Demo crat" writing to the Register from Elk Garden, finds fault with the speech made by Edward S. Elliott, of Preston county. He accuses Mr. Elliott of saying that "Federal officers were placed at the poles in Wheeling by order of President Cleveland in 1888. Also that a negro resident of Wheeling for five years was arrested for attempting to vote and taken to prison handcuffed." This statement he cities as part "of the campaign lying resorted to in this campaign of Republican misrepresenta-

Mr. Elliott told the absolute truth. By order of President Cleveland and against the protest of the United States mar shal for West Virginia, federal officers were placed at the poles in the city of Wheeling on election day in 1888. They had never been used before by any party, although the state was born in the throes of war and has been the scene of many hotly contested campaigns in which the Republican party might have surrounded every pole with United States officers.

The act was so shameless and so utterly without reason that the respectable Democrats of Wheeling blush for their part of it, and nobody of that party was found courageous enough to admit that he had advised or asked the appointment of these officers.

It is also true, as Mr. Elliott stated that a colored man, a thoroughly qualified voter under the law, was three times arrested because he persisted in exercising his right to vote. This developed the whole scheme, which was to bulldoze and intimidate colored voters so that they would be afraid to present themselves at the poles.

It appears that Republican speakers can not read the record of the Democratic party in West Virginia without being accused of being engaged in a campaign of lying. It must be that the connection here referred to slipped into the Register during the absence of the editor.

The only real Americans in the school The only real Americans in the sensoil boy parade in New York on Monday were the 322 Indian boys and girls from the Carlisle government institute. Some of them were very acute, for example, the Indian girl who went down to Ellis island and saw a lot of immigrants land. "Your people," said she, to a young Caucasan by her side, "drove us yout centuries ago. Now these are comout centuries ago. Now these are com-ing to drive you out. The same applies to tho usands of overworked clerks, mechanics and others who see them-selves growing thin in flesh, pale and sallow, and find themselves losing their physical strength and strong nerve. They grow weak, nervous, tire easily, have dull-feeling head, headrache, kidney and liver combiant, wake nervous, tire easily, have dull-feeling head, backache, kidney and liver complaint, wake tired mornings, lose their appetite, become constipated, feel miserable, old. They are rapidly breaking down, and should use immediately the great nerve strengthoner and blood invigorator, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It will give a clear head, strong and steady nerves, vigorous strength of body, perfect action of kidneys, liver and bowels, and thus heav will be able to keep up to their work. they will be able to keep up to their work. SHE BROKE THE SPELL

We sat within the parlor bright,
When day had closed its eye:
The golden moments in their flight
Unheeded pass us by.

It was an hour of honeyed bliss, To which there was no sting, And in a whirl of happiness I asked the maid to sing.

I thought to bear a carol gay
That hunters sing at morn,
Or true love's tender roundelay,
From ardent passion born. She fixed her cuffs, she smoothed a bang And then began to play;
I held my breath—the maiden saug,
"Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay!"
